

Boy plays music he writes. Girl plays music she writes. One day girl goes over to boy's house and they start singing together. Boy smiles. Girl smiles back. Flash forward to their wedding day a few years later. Flash forward again to 2007 when the realization hits them that every musical move they've been making as separate performers has been with the collaboration and support of the other. Sweet Talk Radio is formed. Boy smiles. Girl smiles back.

It's all about chemistry. The science of matter. Properties and reactions. SWEET TALK RADIO is the husband and wife team of Kathrin Shorr & Tim Burlingame. Their debut CD, "My Hallelujah", is a cinematic journey for the ears.

"With undeniable chemistry both on stage and off, STR create alternative-folk-pop songs full of depth and yearning, delivered with an earnest desire to connect."

—Santa Barbara Independent

Together, Kathrin and Tim have had songs featured in numerous television series like, "Fairly Legal" (USANetwork), "In Plain Sight" (USANetwork), "Army Wives" (Lifetime), "Beautiful People" (ABC Family) and "Haven" (SyFy Channel), and their voices can be heard on commercials for JcPenney and Mattel.

SWEET TALK RADIO have opened for/shared the stage with: Colin Hay, Shawn Colvin, The Weepies, Glen Phillips, Kelly Jo Phelps and Kenny Loggins.

Written and produced in their home studio in Los Angeles, "My Hallelujah" draws on the dynamic combination of Shorr's dreamy vocals and Burlingame's lyrical guitar work. It's all about chemistry. Songs that matter. Properties and reactions.

"SWEET TALK RADIO have delivered a sonic gift that leaves the listener no choice but to smile and whisper a grateful 'hallelujah'."
